

An aerial photograph of a residential street. The street is paved and runs vertically through the center of the image. On the left side of the street, there are several houses with brown roofs and tan-colored walls. The houses are set back from the street by green lawns and trees. A red car is parked in the driveway of one of the houses. On the right side of the street, there are more trees and a few parked cars, including a white van and a dark car. The overall scene is a typical suburban neighborhood.
